Declining contribution of labour to GDP

†3760. DR. MURLI MANOHAR JOSHI:
SHRI RAVI SHANKAR PRASAD:

Will the Minister of LABOUR AND EMPLOYMENT be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that the contribution of labour to the GDP has been declining after promotion of policy of globalisation during the recent decades;

(b) if so, the percentage of the decline registered after 1990-91, upto year 2006;

(c) whether Government have made an assessment of this decline; and

(d) if so, the reactions of Government thereto?

THE MINISTER OF STATE OF THE MINISTRY OF LABOUR AND EMPLOYMENT (SHRI OSCAR FERNANDES): (a) No, Sir. The contribution of labour in the economy is measured in terms of compensation paid to employees in the form of wages and salary to Net Domestic Product (NDP) at the current prices . National Account Statistics published by Central Statistical Organisation revealed that the contribution of labour to the Net Domestic Product at Current Prices increased from 33.8% during 1993-94 to 36.5% during 2004-05.

(b) to (d) Do not arise.
